Unit of Research and Development of Natural Products
Institute of Indigenous Medicine
University of Colombo
Sri Lanka

The Unit aims to build a strategic alliance with academics, relevant government authorities, pharmaceutical industry firms, and other interest groups with the aim of encouraging them to participate in a Research and Development (R&D) dialogue and set up a strategic plan for research development and eventual commercialization of natural products. The anticipated strategic alliance would be based on the Public-Private Partnership (PPP) model. The PPP model will be used to augment R & D activities and facilitate the commercialization of the relevant natural products and will be based on an Agreement and a funding formula agreed upon by the parties in accordance with the rules and regulations applicable to the Institute of Indigenous Medicine, University of Colombo.
